

The Authoritative Guide to Implementing Online Learning Across Borders

The Guide to COIL Virtual Exchange

Implementing, Growing, and Sustaining Collaborative Online International Learning

Edited by Jon Rubin and Sarah Guth

With Contributing Editors Stephanie Doscher and Carrie Prior

This is the authoritative guide to implementing COIL Virtual Exchange, conceived and edited by one of the originators of this innovative approach to internationalization, Jon Rubin. Collaborative Online International Learning is being increasingly implemented across the world and validated by a growing body of research.

COIL VE links professors and their students online to counterparts in another region or country, facilitating students collectively to engage and develop joint projects over the duration of a course.

COIL VE opens up more equitable and inclusive participation in international education and intercultural experiences to all students, involves them in rigorous disciplinary studies, and promotes constructive engagement across different cultural perspectives.

This comprehensive guide covers COIL VE pedagogy, provides examples of what takes place in the COIL classroom, and explores what instructors and staff need to know to facilitate and support a variety of COIL courses across the curriculum. It addresses how institutional stakeholders, especially those in leadership positions, can develop and embed a successful COIL initiative at their institution.

This book offers faculty and administrators across the world—whether formally involved in international education, in service-learning and community engagement, or wanting to incorporate a cross-cultural perspective in their disciplinary courses—with the theoretical foundations, guidance on effective collaboration, and the strategic and pedagogical considerations to develop robust COIL VE courses and programs.

Jon Rubin, founder and former director of SUNY's COIL Center, is director of both COIL Consulting and COIL Connect for Virtual Exchange.

Sarah Guth is the president of UNICollaboration, a cross-disciplinary professional organization for telecollaboration and virtual exchange.

Stephanie Doscher is director of Florida International University's Office of Collaborative Online International Learning (FIU COIL).

Carrie Prior is associate dean of the School for Graduate Studies at Excelsior University, and is a former senior international officer with expertise in COIL/virtual exchange.
